HIRAMEKI

TASTY SPOTS

HIRAMEKI is a Japanese word which means "special print". Hirameki technique consists on creating some spots, and using lines, turn them into what it seems. You can make the spots with different paintings (watercolours, gouache, etc.) but also with everything that stains.
For example, the food.
I have done Hirameki with very very tasty spots!
Do it with me and have fun!

Make a spot with jam, mustard, ketchup, whatever is thick but fluid. Splash or stain on a sheet of paper.

Look carefully what the spots look like.

Take a picture, print it out and start drawing.
I have join together the two spots and I have obtained ...

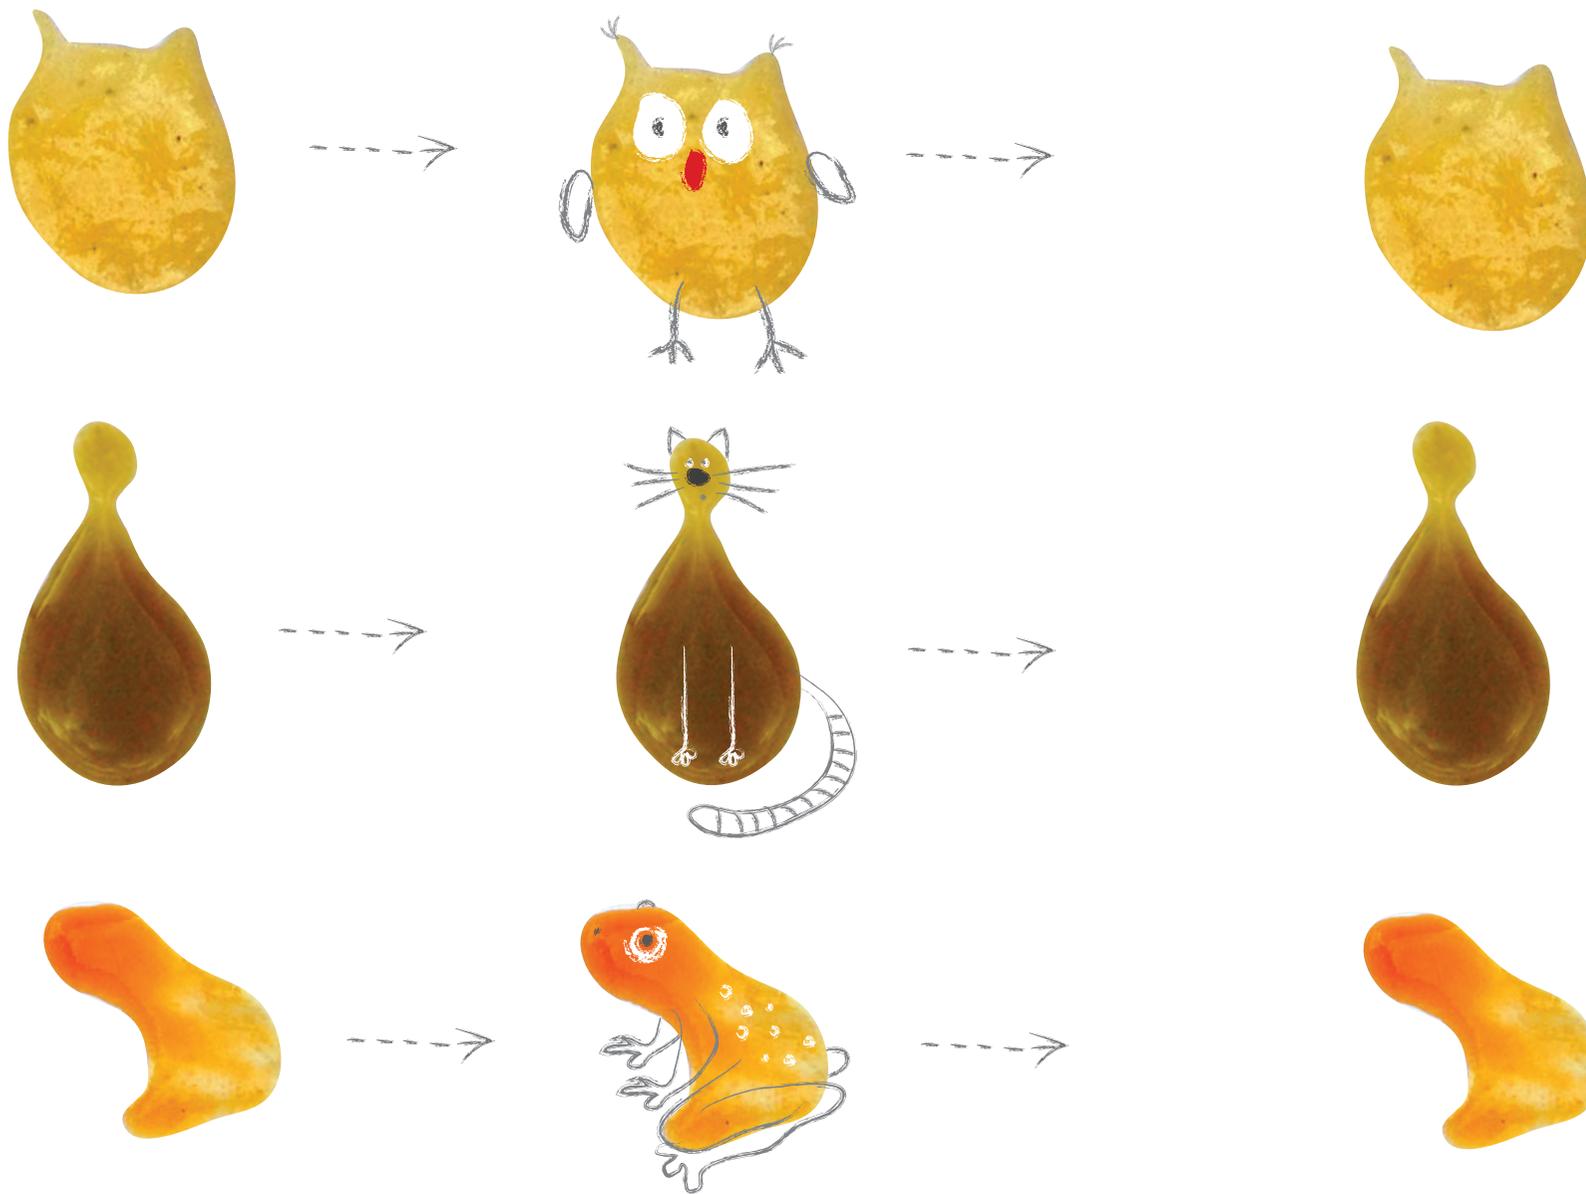

With tasty spots, illustrations can also be created

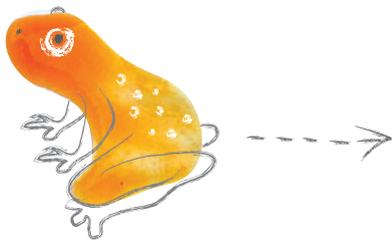

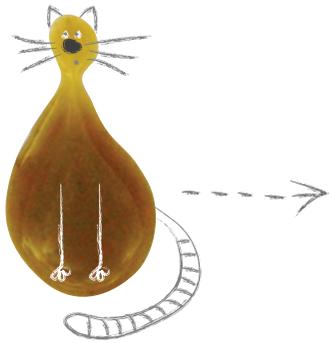

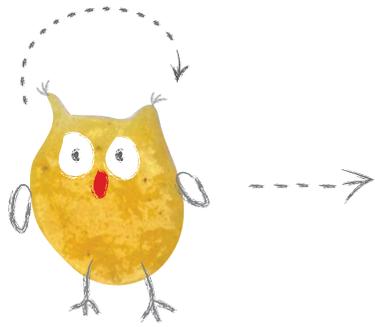

Look at all the stains and characters that have been created with them

Invent your own drawings with these tasty spots

Create more drawings with the spots rotated

Turn these spots into some objects or characters

Take pictures of your tasty / yummy spots, paste them here and make your drawings

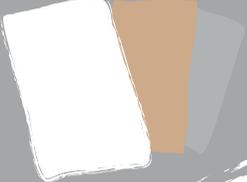

Have loads of fun making the stains with different body parts and very varied food!

SPOTTED PAPERS

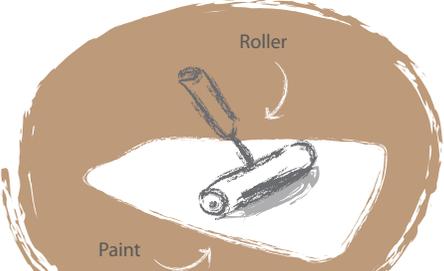

Take papers of different colours and stain them with paint using your hands or a roller.

Find out who is hiding in the stain...

Roller

Paint

Once the ink has dried, look closely at the pictures that you can find in each spot. Cut the paper according to the image found in the stain. It is very fun to look for the hidden images! Complete the drawing with a marker or some paintings.

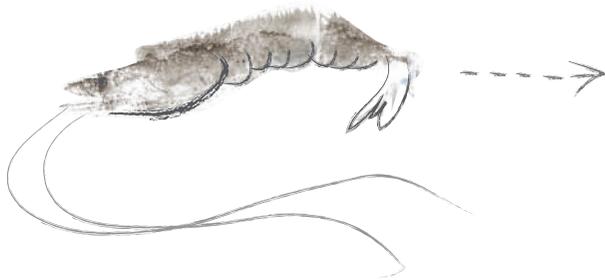

With the spots you can create your characters and their stories

Imagine your story
with this drawing

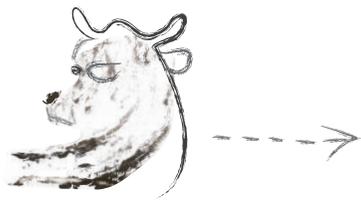

Look at all the stained papers and characters that have been created with them

Invent your own drawings with these spots.
Look what they look like!

Create more drawings with the spots rotated

Turn the spots into totally different drawings!

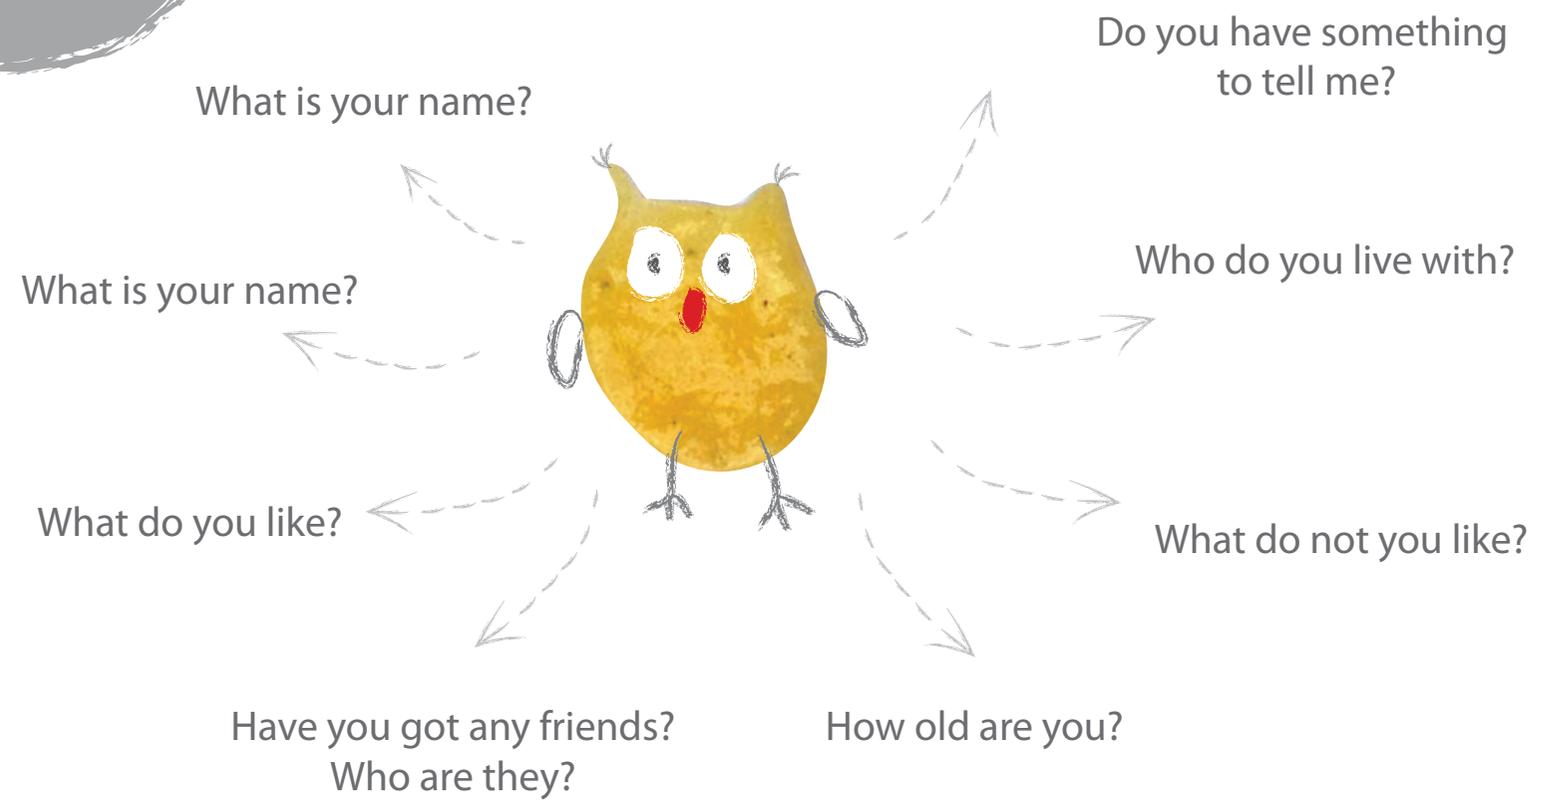

Make your spots, cut them out, paste them here and finish your drawings

It is a fantastic creation!

CREATIVE GAMES

Create your character with any of the previous techniques and invent a story about it. What would you ask to your character?

In answering the questions I have obtained this picture

And you, what story would you invent?

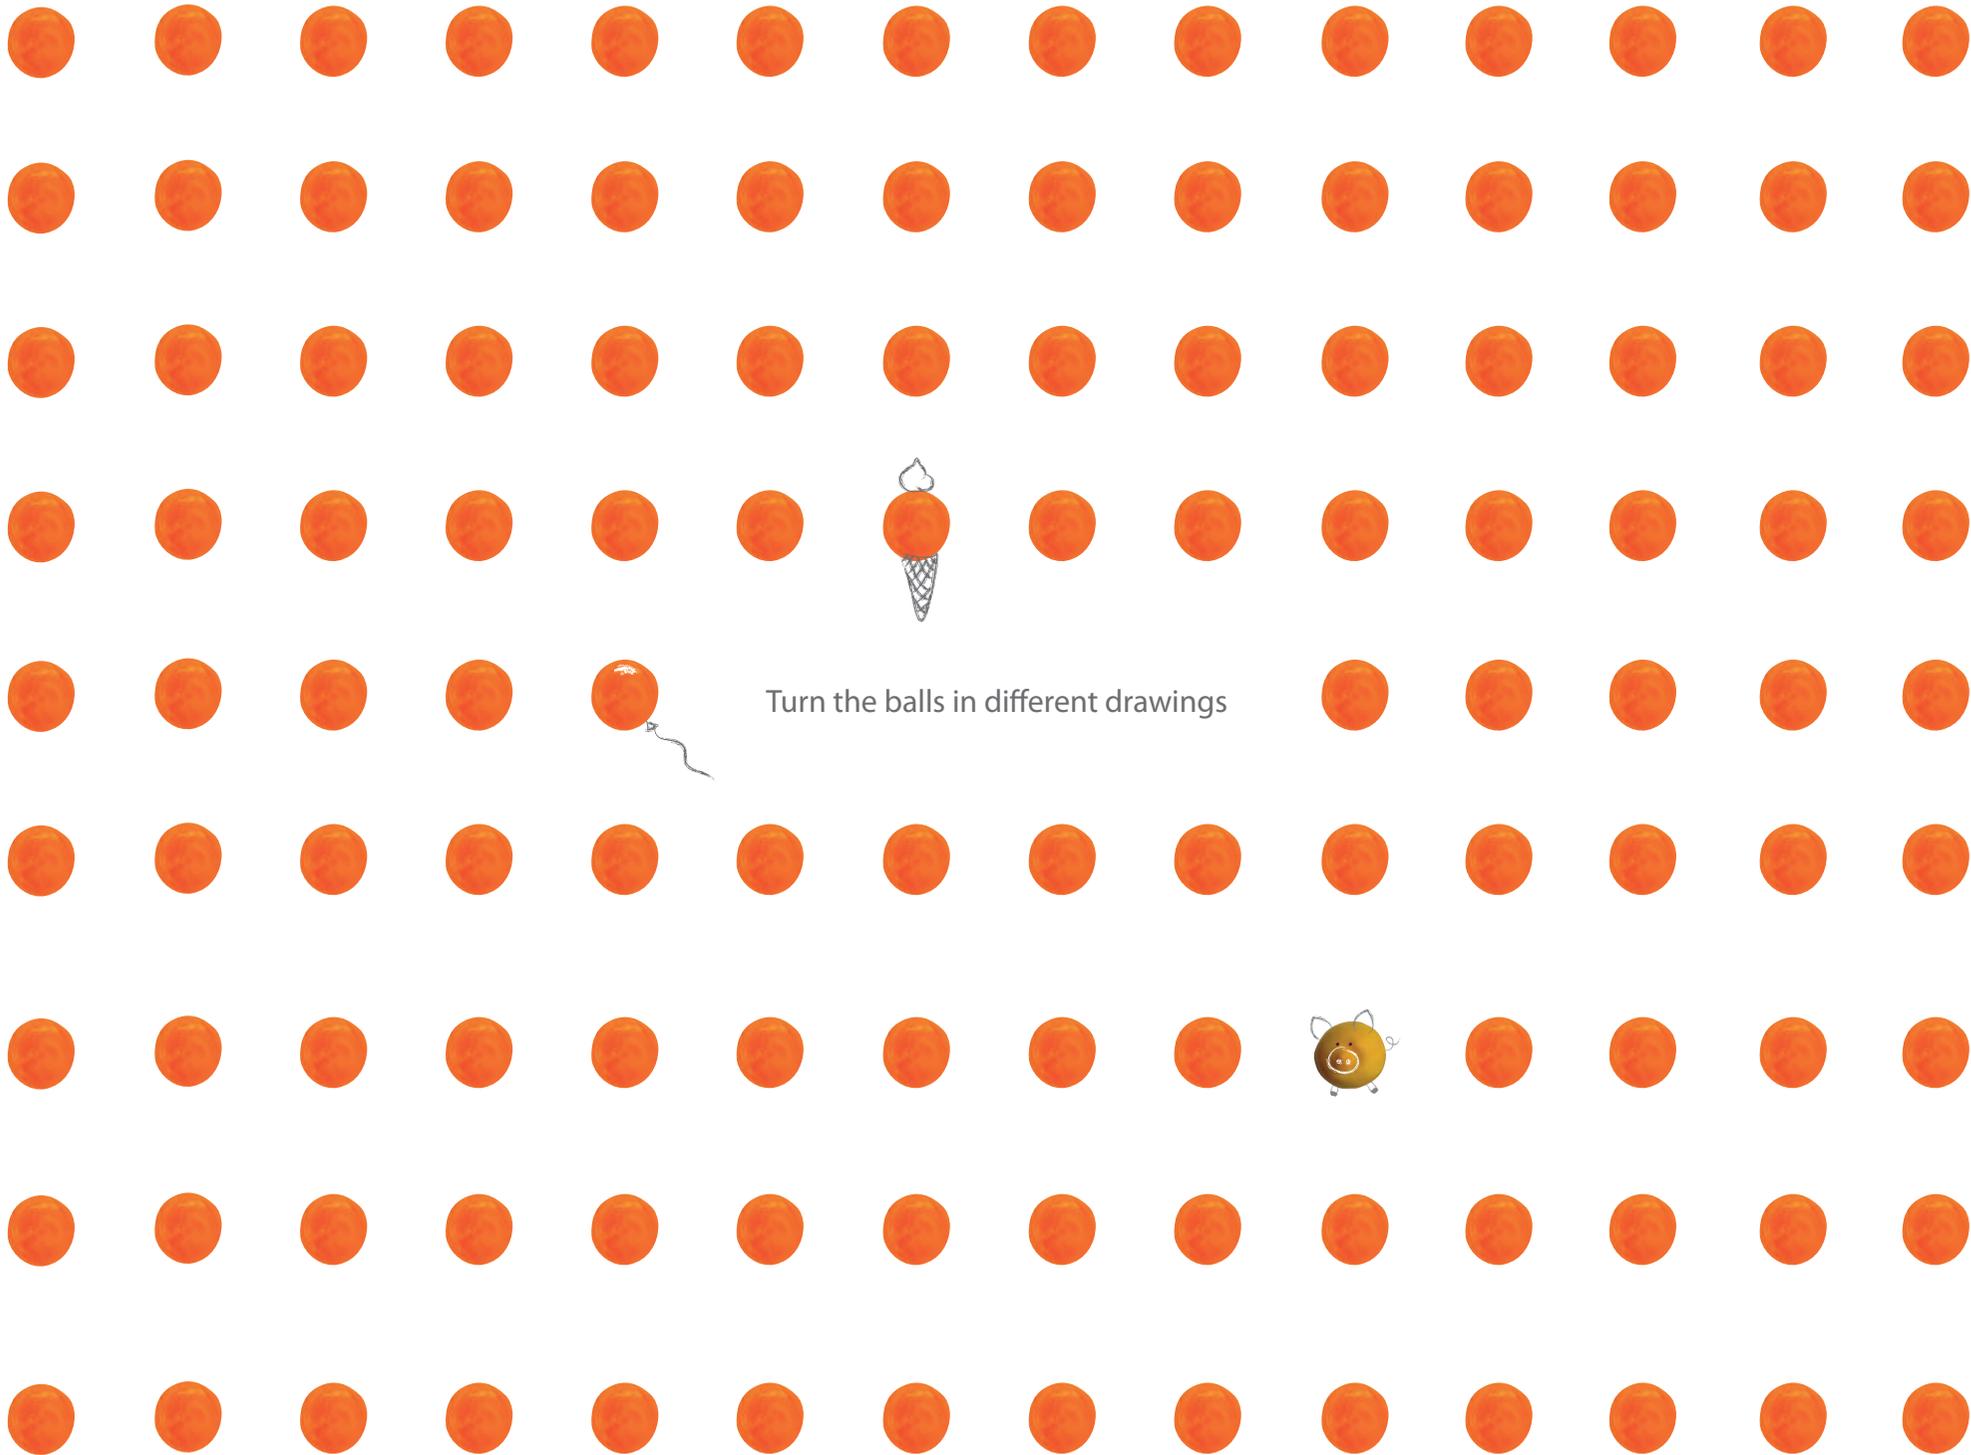

Now create your character and ask it all the questions that you want to know about it

Create your invented story here

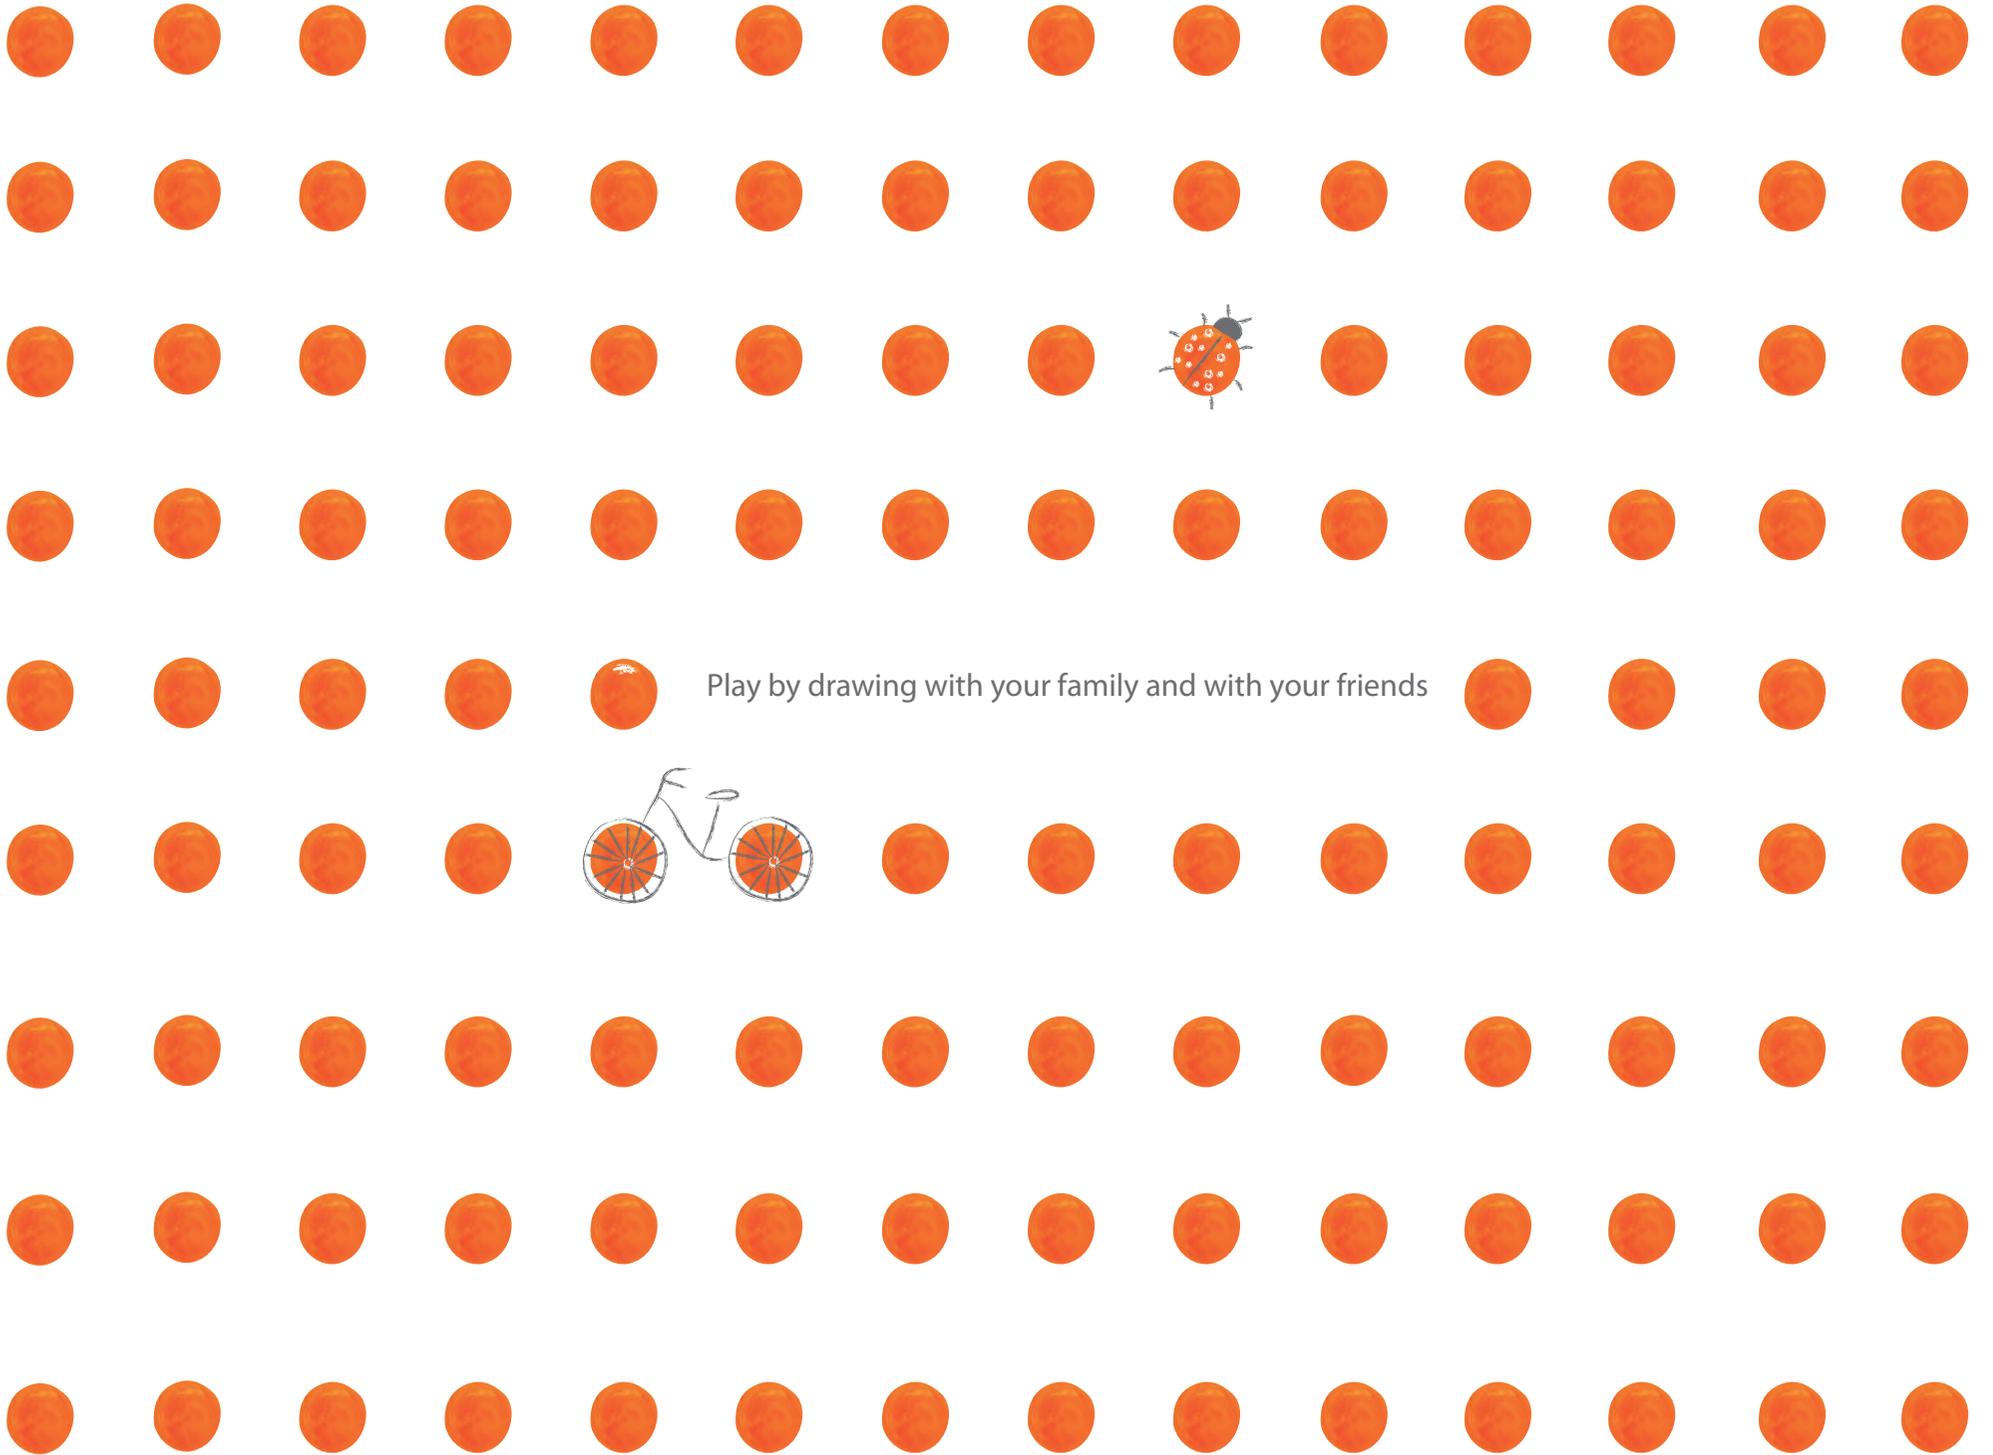

To transfer your character here, take a picture of it, print it out, cut it out and paste it wherever you need

Enjoy inventing and creating here what you want

Enjoy inventing and creating here what you want

Turn the balls in different drawings

Play by drawing with your family and with your friends
